Project XL - Congratulations to Drew Robarge, Jon Mowl, and Stasia Greenberg for advancing to the 2nd Round of Project XL! This is quite an accomplishment since the competition is statewide. Of the 5074 original entries, 1577 were Round One winners. Of those, only 753 entries are advancing to Round Three, which will determine state finalists. Great job, students!!

Sports Update

7th & 8th Grade Girls Basketball – We went to Park Tudor to play against them in the first round of the IISL Tournament. We beat them, but only for the first quarter 14-12, and then we sort of shut down. They blew us off the court. We lost 23 - 58. This game wraps up our season, which I thought was a great season for our girls. Our record stands at 9 - 11. Thank you, girls, for giving us great experiences and a championship in North Carolina. - Coach Jay Krieger

Yearbook News - Please take a moment to check out ISDTV. The Yearbook staff dedicated an entire period to appear on ISDTV for the convenience of customers who may be confused about ordering The Spectacle or about billing procedures. Customers need to contact Jostens regarding billing. You can log in on the www.jostens.com website, go to K-12, Indianapolis, IN then "Indiana School for the Deaf" will appear on the website. It will ask for the job number. Our job number is 13416. Customers will be able to create their own login and password. This will help you check on the status of your yearbook order/bill at your convenience.

The yearbook staff does not handle ordering or billing inquiries/issues. We are in the final stages of our book publication and in the middle of the creation of the Interactive CD. The ordering deadline was December 2002. We hope the steps that The Spectacle staff showed you on ISDTV are helpful. Please include this information in your upcoming newsletters.

Midwest Academic Bowl – The schedule of matches can be found at the end of this section.

MS Wrestling - Park Tudor notified ISD that they are canceling the MS wrestling match at ISD on Tuesday, March 11th. Wrestling team will have practice at 6:00 pm instead.

Clerc Classic - The Indiana Deaf School will be hosting an elite and nationally known Clerc Classic IV High School Boys and Girls Basketball Tournament and Cheerleading Competition this December 11 – 13, 2003. ISD participated in all 3 previous Clerc Classics, and the most recent one was held at the California School for the Deaf - Fremont, California last December. This tournament involves 8 deaf schools, including ISD. Although the tournament will fall on Thursday and Friday December 11th and 12th, ISD will continue to be open and operate under normal school schedule. Mr. Kovatch will determine, at a later time, how staff and students would be involved during the tournament. As its chairman, I have talked with a number of interested people and made the following assignments. These key people will eventually need help from many of you. You can either contact these key people to express your interest now, or wait for their "call for help" announcements at a later time.

Sports Update

HS Varsity Basketball - Indiana 55 - Covenant Christian 65

Our 1A sectional is one of the toughest sectionals in the state. Indeed, it was one of our best games of the year. In the first quarter, we started off well and took the lead with 12-8. At half time we were down by 2 with the score of 21-23. The third quarter was a nightmare as we shot about 10% field goals and could not execute our offense scoring punches. We played hard with a "don't give up attitude" with man-to-man defense in the fourth quarter to bid for a comeback win. But, Covenant Christian held their poise with their hot-handed shooting. The fact is, we played great and won the total of three of four quarters. The coaches are very proud of the team as we finished the season strong ending on many positive notes. In summary, our team was a success this year.

We finished three second places in the Clerc Classic, Kentucky Classic and Central States School for the Deaf (CSSD). We notched the most wins this year with 15, the highest since 1987. It was one of biggest improvements in the basketball program. Look out for our young talents next year as we will be the team to watch! The Players of the Game were Jon Mowl, Onye Davis and Andy Choate. Our final record is 15-7.

Tim Ryan - Artist in Residence at ISD

A self-employed ceramicist and ceramics instructor since 1973, Tim maintains his studio at his home. Over his twenty-year career as a teaching artist, Tim's trademark has been his adaptability—he works well with preschoolers, elementary students, and adults with varying abilities and in many types of settings. He has spent six years teaching an Indianapolis Art Center ceramics class for students from the Indiana School for the Blind, three years teaching youth ceramics classes, and twelve years teaching adult classes. He has conducted several residencies and workshops for VSA arts of Indiana. He has a BA from Seton Hall University, NJ and apprenticed for three years as a production potter before establishing his own instruction and art studio. Being legally blind or, as he prefers, "unencumbered by sight," Tim teams up with other artists for community collaborations, including residencies, workshops and collaborative art installations.

Primary Discipline & Media: Visual Arts - Ceramics

Geographic Availability: Central Indiana

Residency Project Examples

- Indiana School for the Blind Monon Trailhead, 2001:

Tim guided students in the creation of ceramic tile art pieces which were installed on three pillars he designed and installed as part of a collaborative project with the school, VSA arts of Indiana, and the Indiana Chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects (see photograph, left).

- Indiana Deaf Blind Project, 2001: Tim joined several other VSAI artists at Bradford Woods to provide a hands-on arts weekend for deaf and blind students.
- IPS Youth Day Treatment, 1998-2000: Tim offered an in-service in ceramics for IPS teachers.
- Clay Workshop, 1999: Tim provided a day-long ceramics workshop for IPS physical education, music and art teachers.
- Arts After School, 1998: Tim conducted an after-school residency program.
- Lolly Program at Riley Children's Hospital, ongoing: Tim provides hands-on art projects for pediatric patients and their families.

Age Groups & Special Interests

Ryan has experience instructing students of all ages and with all ability levels, with a special focus on students with visual and hearing impairments. He can adapt his residency activities for both contained and inclusive classrooms.

ISD Wins Midwest Academic Bowl - By now you may have already seen the news that our (ISD) High School Academic Bowl Team won the 2003 Gallaudet Regional Academic Bowl last weekend. We bested 11 other Midwest residential and mainstream schools over the two-day tournament. Our team now advances to the national competition to be held at Gallaudet University over the weekend of May 3-5, 2003. Of course the credit, applause, trophies, recognition and fame goes to the students, coaches and assistants - Seniors: Ellen O'Hara, Pia Marie Paulone, and Drew Robarge, Sophomores: Trevor Baldwin and John Mowl, Freshman, Alternates: Bradley Gantt and Amanda Krieger and coaches/assistants: Chuck Daube, Mary Kovatch, Joan Ikeda and Keith Westhoelter. However, this past weekend was indeed a group effort of which the entire ISD staff and school community can take pride.

The Student Life Department was a most gracious host and entertainer for the participants and their coaches. The Dietary Department served a delicious menu topped off with an elegant banquet on Saturday night. A legion of volunteers from both staff and community served in a myriad of capacities to make sure the tournament ran smoothly. Grounds/Housekeeping had all of the campus looking in tip-top shape. The list of individual people to thank is too long to list in this email. However, we can be proud of our team and know that we played a role, whether big or small, in helping them succeed. We will be supporting them "all the way" when they represent ISD in May.

There will be a short recognition for the team in the Auditorium on Monday, March 10 at 3:00 p.m. High School and Middle School students and staff will dismiss at 2:55 and report to the Auditorium. Other staff members are welcome to attend and recognize the team's accomplishments.

Congratulations - What a great pleasure it was to be at the Academic Bowl this year!! The students were outstanding, especially the ISD Team. The ISD Team scored high in all the competition and will be a tough challenger for all the teams at the National Academic Bowl in May. Go ISD!!

Thanks to everyone involved in making this a great event. Many participating schools personally thanked me for all the work you did to make this event enjoyable for all. Many people, including representatives from Gallaudet, asked if we would host it again next year since it was such an organized and fun site for the Bowl.

Thank you for making the ISD a Number 1 school for hosting events and a tremendous thanks to the students on the ISD Team for doing an excellent job and for keeping the regional title at the ISD. Let's bring "home" the National Trophy!!!

BSU Participants - Ball State University is on Spring Break this week (March 10 - 14). The BSU Participants will not be working in their practicum classes.

Toys - Cathy Pardee thanks everyone for the great response and the donated toys she has received! These toys will be put to good use! She is still seeking any donations that people may have. Just email Cathy or contact her at Ext. 295 or Wyndtell pager cpardee@wyndtell.com, and she will be happy to arrange to pick the toys up - She will be happy to make any arrangements that will work for YOU! Again, your support and donations are GREATLY APPRECIATED!!!

Book Sale - The American Book Display Co is again displaying books in the Main Library. The books will be displayed until March 14th. Distance Learning News – Vision Athena is celebrating Earth Day and National Poetry Month in April. In honor of Earth Day, the Center for Agricultural Science and Heritage is offering a wonderful program about agriculture and the earth. The program is designed for a point-counterpoint discussion that includes the controversial use of fertilizers and pesticides as well as the cultivation of GMO (Genetically Modified Organism) crops.

For National Poetry Month, Dr. Ayaba Bey, dynamic poet, musician and storyteller, will delight audiences with a program that demonstrates poetry's relevance throughout time and some of the universal themes that can be expressed through poetry.

Midwest Academic Bowl Volunteers - I would like to make special thanks to all of you for your excellent job as a volunteer for the prestigious academic bowl this past weekend. It meant a lot to all the players, coaches, chaperones, parents, and fans from all over in the Midwest. They enjoyed our "Hoosier Hospitality" immensely, and I have received many wonderful remarks/comments from them. It is all because of your credits including effort, time, and dedication. They even wanted us to host again next year! The event was a huge success! Once again, thank you all for volunteering and devoting many hours to the success of this great event! - Pamela Gatto, Volunteer Recruiter Coordinator

Celebration of Women - March is the Celebration of Women Month, and our students are joining in the celebration. Please come to the 2nd floor of the Alumni Hall in the High School Department to view their work. See what our Pre-Algebra, Algebra 1 and Pre-Calculus students did! - Rita Mowl and Rusty Crace

Teacher Discount - For the weekend of March 28-30, 2003, Borders Bookstore thanks teachers with a 25% discount! This exciting opportunity is open to all teachers. Everyone's invited -- teachers, retired teachers, student teachers, substitute teachers, teachers' aides, college and university professors, preschool and kindergarten teachers, day-care employees, yoga/martial arts instructors, dance teachers, Sunday school teachers, homeschoolers, principals, school counselors, school librarians and special education instructors. Just bring your proof of eligibility (Borders Classroom Discount Card, union card, pay stub, insurance card, school ID, homeschool lesson plans, etc.) to the reception table of your favorite Borders during Educator Appreciation Weekend.

What do good readers know and what are they able to do?

The Northwest Regional Education Lab (NWREL) set out to answer this question. After reviewing reading literature, synthesizing the skills outlined by state reading standards, and observing student readers, NWEL identified the following six traits of an effective reader.

1. Conventions: Reading the Lines - Readers must learn to recognize and identify the conventions that create meaning and expectations in the text. For beginning readers, “decoding conventions” means deciphering the words, symbols, punctuation, and grammar in a text. Conventions also means recognizing genre conventions and the organizational framework of a text—the conventions of a poem, story, novel, newspaper, or textbook.
2. Comprehension - When readers establish comprehension, they create meaning from a text. Comprehension occurs when readers make predictions, identify plot elements such as major and minor characters, and select main ideas and significant and supporting details. An essential component of comprehension is the reader’s ability to self-monitor or recognize when the text is not making sense and to develop strategies to overcome problems.
3. Context: Reading Between the Lines - Context involves reading between the lines to identify the setting, the vocabulary reflective of the setting, and the tone and voice of the author. Readers realize context when they describe historical time periods, find evidence of social issues, and recognize cultural overtones in the text. Context also includes placing ideas and concepts in a “bigger picture” to help students see the practical application of mathematical or scientific concepts.
4. Interpretation - When readers interpret, they “fill in gaps” in the text, using clues and evidence from the text to analyze problems and draw conclusions. Readers develop interpretations when they make plausible explanation of ideas or arguments by recognizing and dealing with ambiguities in the text, reconciling those ambiguities through interpretation.
5. Synthesis: Reading Beyond the Lines - Synthesis involves reading beyond the lines, as students must apply and synthesize knowledge from outside the text. Readers synthesize when they combine information in new ways to order, sort, or outline information from the text. Readers must compare and contrast information from multiple sources or determine cause and effect.
6. Critiquing for Evaluation - Evaluation occurs when readers are able to enter into a dialogue with the text and make the text their own. Readers evaluate by expressing opinions, raising questions, challenging the text, challenging the author, and noting bias and distortion. Evaluation represents the highest level of critical thinking and reading.

When readers use each of the six traits to complete a thorough comprehension of narrative or informational texts, they are, in essence, reading the lines, reading between the lines, and reading beyond the lines (Gray, 1960; Pearson & Johnson, 1978). The traits identify the six critical reading skills necessary to develop readers who can process knowledge from print material, make meaning of it, and apply this meaning in other situations.

To learn more about the six traits and how teachers can use them in their classrooms, visit the Spring 2001 issue of the Journal of School Improvement at <http://www.ncacasi.org/jsi/2001v2i1/traits.adp>.

CILC presents

Vocabulary and Concept Development in the Elementary Classroom

Has vocabulary gotten to be the “same old thing” in your classroom? Spice it up with research-based, practical vocabulary strategies based on how to best promote vocabulary development in and out of the classroom. In this session, we will explore cognitive (dictionary), affective (subjective association), and physical-sensory (motor) approaches to teaching and learning vocabulary. In addition, the presenter will model and discuss group activities appropriate for reinforcing concept and vocabulary development.

About the Presenter

Kimberly Tyson, the featured presenter, has been a classroom teacher, professor, and educational consultant in classrooms ranging from kindergarten to graduate level. Her expertise is in literacy, specifically reading. Kimberly Tyson earned a doctorate from the University of Missouri-Kansas City; honed her testing, diagnosing, and remediation skills while working in a reading clinic; and continues today in a private practice setting. Her experience includes writing classroom curriculum and language arts sections for a standardized testing series. While teaching at the college level, she developed and directed college level Learning Centers that enabled students with learning disabilities to be successful in the college classroom.

Metacognitive Strategies at Blue Valley North High School, KS

by Marcia Branstetter, Teacher

Blue Valley North High School has raised reading scores through the teaching of metacognitive strategies in all content areas. Our decision to use metacognition as the basis for classroom interventions came from a cross-section of content area teachers, rather than from administrative dictates, engendering immediate faculty buy-in.

Our staff development was predicated on the belief that effective reading in different subject areas requires a variety of thinking skills and requires teachers to use their content area expertise to help their students successfully “think about their thinking.” Because of that belief, our staff development focused on one single intervention: public thinking.

During our presentation on Monday April 7 at 3:15 p.m. at the NCA CASI Annual Meeting, we will model a public thinking lesson which will illustrate what proficient readers do metacognitively before, during, and after reading; explain how we were guided by the strategies our best student readers told us they used; and include specific classroom activities our teachers use to promote metacognition in their students.

Finally, we will share local, state, and standardized quantitative data that supports the effectiveness of the intervention, as well as qualitative, anecdotal data illustrating positive teacher reaction to the effectiveness of the strategies they employed.

ISD Students Will Travel to Croatia

Amanda Krieger and Bethany Shelly, accompanied by Teresa Huckleberry, will travel June 28 through July 6, 2003 on an all-expenses paid trip to Croatia as part of the American Delegation for the G.L.O.B.E. Learning Expedition. A teacher and two students from the Model Secondary School for the Deaf will also be a part of the American Delegation. This international conference will involve students from twenty-one (21) different countries. As part of their work in SOAR-High Earth Science Class, students completed a research project, working as a team with students from the Model Secondary School for the Deaf. Their research project involved comparing weather data with colors of light reflected from sugar maple leave, as the leaves changed color in autumn. The team submitted their research project to scientists at G.L.O.B.E. Scientists were very impressed with the team's project and invited them to present their research at the G.L.O.B.E. international conference.

G.L.O.B.E. is a worldwide hands-on, primary and secondary school-based education and science program. "GLOBE" is an acronym for "Global Learning & Observations to Benefit the Environment." G.L.O.B.E. is supported by NASA, the National Science Foundation, the Environmental Protection Agency, and the US Dept. of State.

GLOBE provides the opportunities to learn by:

1. Taking scientifically valid measurements in the fields of atmosphere, hydrology, soils, and land cover/phenology;
2. Reporting their data through the Internet
3. Creating maps and graphs on the free interactive Web site to analyze data sets
4. Collaborating with scientists and other GLOBE students around the world

The GLOBE website can be viewed at <http://www.globe.gov/>, and the team's research project can be viewed at <http://csc.gallaudet.edu/soarhigh/Leaves/leafcover.html>. The project's abstract follows:

“Students in the Earth System Science classes at the Model Secondary School for the Deaf (Washington, DC) and Indiana School for the Deaf (Indianapolis, Indiana) conducted a collaborative research project during the fall of 2002. The project focused on answering the following questions:

- 1) Why do leaves change color in autumn?
- 2) How do factors of temperature and rain affect the colors of the leaves?
- 3) What changes occur in the colors and percentages of light reflected from leaves?

Students collected data using GLOBE's Green Down Protocols, and the protocols for recording precipitation, minimum temperatures, and maximum temperatures. Students at both schools used an ALTA reflectance spectrometer to record the percentages of colors of light reflected from leaves. Students in Washington, DC studied Silver Maple leaves, while students in Indiana studied Sugar Maple leaves. Throughout the investigation, students used the Internet and videoconferencing to discuss data, compare results, determine conclusions, and prepare a final report.

At the investigation's conclusion, students noted differences in precipitation, temperature, geographic location, and changes in percent of light reflected from leaves. The students found interesting patterns in the data as the fall season progressed, indicating biological changes happening inside the leaves in response to the environment.”

For winter's rains and ruins are over,
And all the season of snows and sins;
The days dividing lover and lover,
The light that loses, the night that wins;
And time remembered is grief forgotten,
And frosts slain and flowers begotten,
And in green underwood and cover
Blossom by blossom the spring begins.

Better intervention, identification at heart of proposed bill

Wednesday, March 19, 2003 Posted: 8:33 AM EST (1333 GMT)

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Millions of children in special education would face earlier help, tougher academic standards and overhauled screening to determine if they are truly disabled under a proposed retooling of the program.

Republican House education leaders will present on Wednesday an update to the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, the 1975 law that promised appropriate education for all. The law's reauthorization is seen by educators as the most significant school project facing Congress this year. Roughly 6.3 million children receive special help, and their education affects all classrooms as schools deal with teacher training, shortfalls of money and student discipline. "We must ensure that children with disabilities are given access to an education that maximizes their unique abilities, and provides them with the tools for later success," said bill sponsor Rep. Mike Castle, R-Delaware, chairman of the House Education reform subcommittee.

The House bill focuses on early help for struggling students and better identification of true disability. It would eliminate the use of an IQ test that measures the gap between intelligence and achievement, one that critics say is fundamentally flawed and withholds help until a student fails. Democrats disagree over such issues as spending and student discipline, where battle lines probably will be drawn in both chambers. "They are breaking their word on special education funding, just as they broke their promise to provide schools the resources they promised when we enacted the 'No Child Left Behind Act,'" said Rep. George Miller of California, ranking Democrat on the House Education and the Workforce Committee. Senate education leaders expect to introduce a bipartisan bill next month, but fights are expected over spending and private-school vouchers for disabled children. Although the House bill was not expected to include a voucher provision, proponents might try to add one.

Shrink paperwork, increase accountability

From less paperwork to greater accountability, the bill was generally embraced by special-education advocates. But they also were unimpressed by promised increases in federal money and wary of offering support until firm details emerge. A central aim of the bill is to keep more students from getting into special education. Thousands are misidentified, education officials say, including students with basic reading difficulties and a disproportionate number of minority students. "It's the right thing to do to identify problems early on," said James Wendorf, executive director of the National Center for Learning Disabilities. For example, students could get reading help in kindergarten or first grade rather than grades 3 or 4. "It means those students will not have to experience that cycle of frustration and failure that leads to a whole host of poor educational outcomes," Wendorf said.

The bill would shrink paperwork and the frequency of student reporting for teachers, chores considered so cumbersome that they drive teachers out of special education. "It's not the paperwork, per se. It's the time it takes away from teaching and learning. We're very interested in seeing that change," said Bill East, executive director of the National Association of State Directors of Special Education.

'No Child Left Behind'

Most children with disabilities spend much of their time in a typical classroom, and the bill recognizes the importance of training all teachers, said Patti Ralabate, a special education expert for the National Education Association. The special education law would be aligned with "No Child Left Behind," the education law that demands better performance of students, teachers and schools. "We want that inclusion," Wendorf said. "It's only by being included that our students won't be shunted aside or forgotten." Under President Bush, the government's main spending on special education has hit its highest level, $8.5 billion, but that remains far short of the contribution Congress promised years ago. The bill would increase federal spending from 18 percent to 40 percent of the per-student cost within seven years, but that money would be discretionary, meaning no guarantees.

March 24, 2003

Dear ISD Staff,

The Indiana School for the Deaf will have their 52nd Anniversary PTCO Day 2003 Festival on Sunday, May 4, 2003 on the ISD campus. The Parent-Teacher-Counselor Organization (PTCO) coordinates the fund-raising event to help support the educational needs of the Deaf students. One of the main attractions is to sell the raffle. The prize money is as follow: 1st - $500, 2nd - $250, 3rd - $125, 4th - $75, 5th - $50. Each ticket will cost $1.00 or $10.00 for whole book. We hope that you will support our endeavors to raise money for our students. Instead of sending the raffle tickets to you all like past few years, please contact me to send you a book consisting of 10 raffle tickets via campus mail. If you wish to sell more tickets, just say how many books you need!

It is very important to return to me before Thursday, May 1, 2003, or drop the raffle tickets at front lobby of Caskey Building during PTCO Day on Sunday May 4, 2003 before drawing time at 4:00 pm. Please share this information with your community friends about our PTCO Day 2003 Festival.

If you have any questions regarding the matter, please do not hesitate to contact me at the school or call 317-920-6282 TTY or FAX 317-923-2853 or email me at BPeters@isfd.state.in.us Thank you very much for your support, and hope to see you on May 5th.

Sincerely yours,

Bruce W. Peters, PTCO Day Raffle Coordinator

cc: Barb Gantt, PTCO Day Coordinator

CILC presents

Action Research with Amy Leeson

"It is teachers who, in the end, will change the world of school by understanding it." Lawrence Stenhouse

Research—the very word can conjure up confusion. Want to lessen the confusion and learn how to make research practical for you? Be a part of this exciting session! Learn how to teach more effectively by examining and assessing your own work, and then consider ways of working differently. Action Research is considered one of the most powerful models for collecting classroom data and a way to collate and analyze data for the school or district. By the end of the session, participants will understand the three approaches to action research: individual teacher research, collaborative action research, and school-wide action research.

About the Presenter

Amy Leeson is Director of Curriculum and Staff Development for Northern Wells Schools. She trains throughout the state and the country. Amy is a mentor for the state TOPHAT initiative and serves on the Indiana Professional Development Cadre. She brings humor, fun, and practical applications to all of her training.

Announcements

Greetings! - Before we go on to a new chapter of the 2003 Indianapolis Motor Speedway (IMS), we want to thank every one of you for helping out as volunteers during the 2002 IMS (3 Race Events). We did really well by earning over $18,000 for our ISD Student Athletes! We are going to volunteer this year again at IMS. We will not be at Stand #299; we will be at Stand #40. Stand #40 is the second largest booth at IMS. It means more volunteers BUT fewer days! We will volunteer 9 days in May compared to 17 days last year. Making less money? Nope, this stand will earn around $30,000 for all three races. This year, we will combine with Bishop Chatard High School (BCHS). We will go 50/50 with them. We will earn around $15,000. We made many new friends last year so we will continue to make more new friends this year with BCHS. It will be a lot of fun! We will contact all of our volunteers via e-mail about new information (changes/updates) of Stand #40 after our orientations at IMS on April 12th.

What we need is to get as many volunteers for the Indy 500. All volunteers must be 16 years and older. No student will be allowed to work at IMS during their school days. Here are the lists of dates available:

Sunday, May 4th - 14 volunteers (7:30 am to 6 pm) **
Wednesday, May 7th - 12 volunteers (7:30 am to 6 pm) **
Thursday, May 8th - 12 volunteers (7:30 am to 6 pm) **
Friday, May 9th - 14 volunteers (6:30 am to 6 pm) **
Saturday, May 10th - 15 volunteers (5:30 am to 6 pm) **
Sunday, May 11th - 14 volunteers (6:30 am to 6 pm) **
Sunday, May 18th - 14 volunteers (6:30 am to 6 pm) **
Thursday, May 22nd - 15 volunteers (6:30 am to 6 pm) **
Sunday, May 25th - 15 volunteers (3:30 am to 6 pm) **

 - Must have at least 9 volunteers with an Alcohol Permit. If you want to obtain an Alcohol Permit, let us know.

Please give us preferred dates above that you will be willing to work as a volunteer. IT WILL BE FIRST COME FIRST SERVE! Send your preferred dates to Ken Kramer (Kenneth.Kramer@DFAS.Mil) and Rod Squire (RSquireSeymour@wmconnect.com) no later than Sunday, April 27th. Don't Delay! Please be sure that you will be available on the day you are assigned.

If you have any question, please don't hesitate to ask Ken or Rod.

ISD Daily News

The first day of spring is one thing, and the first spring day is another.
The difference between them is sometimes as great as a month.

Announcements

Volunteers Needed - Before we go on to a new chapter of the 2003 Indianapolis Motor Speedway (IMS), we want to thank every one of you for helping out as volunteers during the 2002 IMS (3 Race Events). We did really well by earning over $18,000 for our ISD Student Athletes! We are going to volunteer this year again at IMS. We will not be at Stand #299; we will be at Stand #40. Stand #40 is the second largest booth at IMS. It means more volunteers BUT fewer days! We will volunteer 9 days in May compared to 17 days last year. Making less money? Nope, this stand will earn around $30,000 for all three races. This year, we will combine with Bishop Chatard High School (BCHS). We will go 50/50 with them. We will earn around $15,000. We made many new friends last year so we will continue to make more new friends this year with BCHS. It will be a lot of fun! We will contact all of our volunteers via e-mail about new information (changes/updates) of Stand #40 after our orientations at IMS on April 12th.

What we need is to get as many volunteers for the Indy 500. All volunteers must be 16 years and older. No student will be allowed to work at IMS during their school days. Here are the lists of dates available:

Sunday, May 4th - 14 volunteers (7:30 am to 6 pm) **
 Wednesday, May 7th - 12 volunteers (7:30 am to 6 pm) **
 Thursday, May 8th - 12 volunteers (7:30 am to 6 pm) **
 Friday, May 9th - 14 volunteers (6:30 am to 6 pm) **
 Saturday, May 10th - 15 volunteers (5:30 am to 6 pm) **
 Sunday, May 11th - 14 volunteers (6:30 am to 6 pm) **
 Sunday, May 18th - 14 volunteers (6:30 am to 6 pm) **
 Thursday, May 22nd - 15 volunteers (6:30 am to 6 pm) **
 Sunday, May 25th - 15 volunteers (3:30 am to 6 pm) **

 - Must have at least 9 volunteers with an Alcohol Permit. If you want to obtain an Alcohol Permit, let us know.

Please give us preferred dates above that you will be willing to work as a volunteer. IT WILL BE FIRST COME FIRST SERVE! Send your preferred dates to Ken Kramer (Kenneth.Kramer@DFAS.Mil) and Rod Squire (RSquireSeymour@wmconnect.com) no later than Sunday, April 27th. Don't Delay! Please be sure that you will be available on the day you are assigned.

If you have any question, please don't hesitate to ask Ken or Rod.
